POLICE COURT

Percy Cordrey and G. Murphy were each assessed $5 in police court yesterday morning for being drunk. Mike Riley, who pleaded guilty to a similar offense, was given ten days in which to sober up. Riley is an old offender. Maggie Messenger and Edith Cathart, who were arrested for disturbing the peace, will be given a hearing at a later date. Mrs. Messenger felt indisposed and could not be aroused from her bed in time for court and her companion entered a plea of not guilty.

A bond of $5 was forfeited by David Marsh, who did not appear to answer to the charge of allowing his horse to stand in the street without the animal being securely tied.

It is expected that Hyrum M. Smith and Joseph W. McMurrin will be present from the general authorities.

A cordial invitation is extended to all who desire to attend.

HUSBAND MUST DIVIDE SALARY

Candyman Says He Only Gets $35—Court Orders Him to Pay One-Half to Wife.

Although Frank Proudfoot, of this city, who is the defendant in an action brought for divorce by his wife in Salt Lake City, claimed that his salary amounted to only $35 per month he was nevertheless ordered by the court to pay one-half of the amount to his spouse until further notice.

Proudfoot stated to Judge Morse that he is employed in a candy store in Ogden and that out of the $35 per month paid him for his services he managed to save $2.70 during the month of November. This was all the money he had left after paying his necessary expenses. Mrs. Proudfoot testified to the court that she was entirely without funds and that she was endeavoring to support herself by taking in washings.

The husband was ordered to divide up his salary with his wife and was warned that a refusal to comply with the order would be looked upon as a contempt of court and he would be dealt with accordingly.

AT THE THEATRES

THE TRAVELING SALESMAN.

That delightful James Forbes comedy, "The Traveling Salesman," pleased two good audiences at the Orpheum theater Saturday afternoon and evening.

This charming piece portrays the life of a "drummer" and shows that he is not such a bad fellow after all and has a heart that beats true. It depicts the Knight of the Grip in his true character—shows him to be a man who is only human—one who can fall in love at first sight just as well as the man of any other walk of life. In "The Traveling Salesman" it is a case of "love at first sight" that causes Bob Blake, a good-natured, fat and honest "drummer," caught in a little town on Christmas day to fall in love and save the property of Beth Elliott, an orphan, from the clutches of a scheming millionaire and his unworthy assistant. With the aid of a few brother drummers and a lovable woman, Bob finally gets the girl and as the last curtain falls, he is at a telephone calling for a minister and witnesses.

The role of Bob Blake has been fittingly cast in Mark Smith. His portrayal is true to life—not the least bit overdone—of the jovial drummer. He reads his lines well and has a pleasing mannerism. At times, though, Mr. Smith has a tendency of speaking too fast and the effect of certain lines is lost.

A more lovable Beth could not have been found for the role by the producers than Miss Dallas Tyler. She is a clever artist and possesses an original and natural style, which immediately wins the admiration of her audience. Totally unaffected and giving a portrayal which is near perfect, Miss Tyler makes one of the pleasing hits of the production.

Then, there is Diana Huneker, admirably cast in the character of Mrs. Babbitt, a widow, and lovable old woman, too, who always (nearly so) is in the right. Miss Huneker's interpretation of this role, in which she was seen here last year, is splendid. Whether it is Miss Huneker or Mrs. Babbitt, one feels that to meet the character in real life, such as one often does is a treat in itself.

Doan Borup, as Ted Watts, is one of those jolly "drummer" chaps who would do anything for a friend if he were in (love). Mrs. Babbitt's characterization of Watts is delightful.

The role of Julius, the negro porter, is cleverly done by George De Vere. He gets all there is out of the part—and then some.

Charles Richmond, an old Ogden favorite, is seen in the role of Bill Crabb, the baggageman. The role does not give Richmond very much to do, but he gets all there is in it. His splendid comedy work is much appreciated.

The role of Martin Drury, the scheming millionaire, is in the capable hands of Mark Price. Gideon Buxton, Emmett Shackelford, Felix Krembs and Marion Stephenson are good in their respective roles. The company throughout is as well balanced as has been seen in the city in months.

SOCIETY

FLORODORA CLUB.

The Florodora club will give the second in a series of dancing parties at Congress dancing academy on Monday evening.

The Florodora club is composed of the young married people of the city, and some very delightful parties will be given during the winter. One hundred couples are expected to participate Monday evening, and a splendid program has been arranged.

MARRIED WEDNESDAY.

With the ring ceremony Charles V. Roberts and Miss Julia L. Davis, both of this city, were united in marriage Wednesday evening at the home of Rev. S. C. Hickman, of the Central Park Presbyterian church. Rev. Mr. Hickman officiated.

Both the bride and groom have many friends in this city. Mr. Davis is a railroad employe and is quite popular in Ogden circles. Only a few immediate friends and relatives witnessed the ceremony.

The couple will reside on Reeves avenue, where they have cosily furnished a home.

JOLLY BUNCH.

The home of Mr. Walter Crowther, on Fourth street, was the scene of jollification Wednesday evening, when the "Jolly Bunch" were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Crowther. High five furnished amusement for the evening. Prizes were won by Mr. and Mrs. Dave Taylor and Grace Taylor and Chester Dean. A delightful supper was served which was enjoyed by all.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Dave Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Dean, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Snider, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Crowther, Mattie Edwards and Allie Farr and as guests of the club were Mrs. J. M. Lantz, Miss Grace Taylor and Hattie Moore.

All departed voting Mr. and Mrs. Crowther royal entertainers.

Mr. and Mrs. James Lisenby, of Salt Lake, stopped over a day in Ogden to visit R. W. Lisenby, assistant manager of the Ogden Electric Supply and Fixture company. Mr. and Mrs. Lisenby are en route to California to spend the holidays.

D. W. Burg, timekeeper, and Paul Lynch, private secretary to Union Pacific superintendent at Green River, Wyoming, are in town, looking up old friends.

BREWERY MEN HAD JOLLY TIME

The enviable reputation of Brewery Workers local number 325 as royal entertainers was again upheld on Thursday evening, when more than 600 persons joined with them in their third annual ball at the Royal Dancing academy. Ample assistance by the popular floor manager, F. H. Whitehead, the committees diffused a spirit of sociability among the large crowd that will be remembered for some time to come. An attractive souvenir program of twenty-two dances, each one appropriately named, was given each guest on entering the hall. For a cover design a facsimile of a bottle of the famous "Beckers Best" was used. Splendid music was furnished by the seven-piece orchestra, and after the regular program was completed, the crowd was in such a jolly mood that an additional hour of dancing was added, the merry party breaking up at 1 a. m. Brown, the popular caterer, was in charge of the refreshments, and several kinds of delicious punch was served with Nabisco wafers. This feature was also much enjoyed. Credit for the success of the party belongs to the following committees: Executive, E. H. Wright, George Dinsdale, S. M. Moore; floor, Alonzo West, Carl Larson, Myron Watson; reception, M. B. Richardson, E. E. Lund, Arnold Jorgensen, floor manager, F. H. Whitehead.

ASYLUM NURSE BECOMES INSANE

SALT LAKE, Dec. 17.—Mrs. Joseph E. Fowler, a former attendant at the state mental hospital, is in a fair way to return to that institution as a patient. Violently insane, according to an information filed in the Third district court Friday, Mrs. Fowler will be examined by the sanity commission today.

Mrs. Fowler's story is a sad one. Her maiden name was Miss Nephine Broberg. While employed at the hospital she met Joseph E. Fowler, also an employee. Later they were married and still later removed to Salt Lake. As the years went by a number of children came to them, and finally Fowler deserted his family. It is alleged, and went to Idaho. This was in 1908, and the blow was a severe one to Mrs. Fowler, who was left with a number of children, whom she was unable to support. It is understood that her mind became slightly unsettled at that time, but her condition did not warrant the officers in restraining her of her liberty.

Fowler was brought back from Idaho on a requisition, and charged with neglecting his minor children. The information was found faulty, however, and quashed, but Fowler was arrested and gave bonds for his appearance. The case is pending.

Recently Mrs. Fowler's condition has become worse, and it is said that she was violent on Tuesday night, so much so, in fact, that it took several of her relatives to control her.

PORTLAND TEAM TO PLAY OAK PARK

The Oak Park High school of Chicago has finally secured the team of Portland has agreed to take the Windy City lads on for a game, which will be played Dec. 31 or Jan. 7. The Washington team won the championship of Portland during the last season and is regarded as one of the fastest interscholastic eleven in that section.

Couch Early of the web-footed team is anxious to close for the earlier date and negotiations will be completed within a few days settling the date for the contest.

Oak Park will play at Denver and probably in Ogden on the trip to the coast.
